medical college of virginia
within these pages are represented the integral parts of the medical college of Virginia—the advancement of research, the development of knowledge, the service to humanity, and the bonds of friendship. These aspects are everchanging, as do the phases of a chess game, but are always directed toward serving and the goal of progress.
...“to seek the cause and
To the rarely lauded members of research teams, who give a basis upon which subsequent knowledge is founded, The 1957 X-Ray is dedicated. Their work cannot be measured in terms of daily progress; indeed, their experiments may be complete failures, but this is only temporary. With each error, something is learned and a passing retreat ultimately leads to a permanent advancement.

Medicine is a field which is ever growing; practices which have been adhered to for years may be completely outdated in the course of a few days. It is these men and women of research who prevent the possible stagnancy of medicine. Not knowing all the answers, but being fully aware that there must be a conclusion to the maze of theories, these persons keep applying past knowledge for the purpose of revealing new facts. It is to them that we owe our gratitude and appreciation for their persistent efforts in the direction of progress which eventually affects all of our lives.
...to educate those who

The Honorable Edward Wren Hudgins, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia, administers oath of office to Dr. Robert Blackwell Smith, Jr.

Major General Tompkins, followed by Governor Stanley and delegates of colleges and universities, leads the inaugural procession.

Dr. Smith pauses with his wife and his mother and father at the inaugural reception.
Appointed by the Medical College of Virginia as its fourth President, Dr. Smith comes now to lead and to serve this institution which he has known so well as student, teacher, and dean.

In 1937, he was graduated from the School of Pharmacy with the degree of Bachelor of Science. After completing graduate work at the University of Florida and the University of Chicago, he returned to MCV in 1945, as Assistant Dean of Pharmacy and Lecturer in Pharmacology. Two years later he became dean and late in 1953, was elected by the College Board of Visitors to be Assistant President. He served in this capacity until July 1, 1956, at which time he became our president.

inaugural address
"the healing arts and the american way"

Excerpts from the address given by Dr. Joseph Clarke Robert, President of Hampden-Sydney College, at the inauguration of Dr. Robert Blackwell Smith, Jr., on December 17, 1956.

"... Today, in our struggle for the mastery of science, particularly as it applies to our special fields, we as physicians, too often neglect the humanities, become narrow and limited in our ideas and fail to assume that leadership in cultural pursuits which is our heritage. . .

"We must remember that in the medical arts there is a unity of service which can be denied only at the highest cost to all concerned. Healing is a co-partnership. Imagine, if you can, surgery without the anaesthetist. Where would modern treatment be without the skilled pharmacologist and the patient nurse? I state a simple fact when I report that the chaplain provides a therapy rich and fruitful. Indeed, healing is a seamless garment.

"... Guard against residence in the sterile valleys of arrogance, the dangerous occupational wastelands, insidiously beckoning all those engaged in the arts of healing. Gravitation towards this treacherous acre comes not from any inherent weakness in the professions, but rather from the weakness of mankind in general, which often appears more desperate over its stomachaches than its heartaches, and more concerned with athletes' foot than with the scabrous and festering hate of man for man. . .

"I remind you of your obligations to scholarship and to citizenship, despite the pressures and complexities in the inevitably specialized world of medicine. I applaud the recent and public concern of the healing profession with the whole man. This concept, awkwardly old but assuredly urgent, will make more complete men and women of the nurses, technicians, hospital administrators, pharmacists, dentists, and doctors.

"... You must in a sense return to the priesthood from which you came. Then will the complex become simple, the mysterious plain, and your efforts be crowned with joy. . ."

The Egyptian Building

Built in 1845, became the first permanent home of the college. It contains the famous Simon Baruch Auditorium and many replicas of Egyptian art and culture.

Freshmen reception in September.
The Medical College of Virginia was founded in 1838 as the Medical Department of Hampden-Sydney College, having been authorized by the Board of Trustees of Hampden-Sydney, on December 1, 1837.

The old Union Hotel on East Main Street was the first home of the College; however, this was only temporary. In 1845, the Egyptian Building was completed, providing the necessary facilities for medical education of that day.

In 1854, the College was chartered as an independent institution and carried on its program throughout the War Between the States, furnishing physicians for the Army and the Navy of the Confederacy. It is the only Southern medical school now in existence that did not close its doors during the conflict.

In the year 1860, the Medical College became a state institution.

It is with deep appreciation that we dedicate our section to Dr. Harry Walker, who gave us our first contact with clinical medicine. We will always remember his efforts to teach us to recognize those small variations from the normal and to reason intelligently their significance.
“ONCE more into the breach, dear friends,” Henry V exhorted his troops before Agincourt. Let us, like them, into the breach mounting yet another assault upon the heights of the unknown, battering down the walls separating the ill from the whole man. Our assault, too, will be against odds and not without loss. There will be almost as many ways to accomplish the task as there are members of the Class of '57. Many will fill the ranks of active practice, others will teach those to follow, and yet a few to explore the horizons of research.

Whatever our lot, let us take heart from the past, remembering the many victories over seemingly hopeless problems which are now nearly curiosities: dedicate ourselves to the present with sincere service and thereby assure the future of Medicine in the hands of those who can most capably guide it. And, although we may never be given a great role to play, let us play our given role with greatness.

WITH the arrival of September, 1956, came the donning of white jackets (sign of a doctor), carrying of black bags (also sign of a doctor), and flipping of pearl books (sign of intern and/or resident), our class was once again ready to undertake another seemingly insurmountable task. Yes sir, we were ready to dive for those pearls as they were cast. We were over the hump, but there was plenty muddy road ahead. So off to lectures and on to the services.

Our new classmates from West Virginia and Liege, Belgium (1) added more than just numbers to our class, i.e. more personality, variety, different ideas, enthusiasm, a few new jokes, and many new friends. Only when West Virginia squeezed by to beat Richmond in basketball did they give any trouble.

Remember that fancy lecture and clinic schedule we were given the first day of class? It even had the doctors confused—and that's unusual around MCV. After figuring out our fates (by the use of the higher mathematics we were told we would need in med-school), we were off to the wards and clinics for our first live human patients, having previously worked on dogs, cats, rats, frogs, birds, and fish.

Each service made its own history; the late hours, howling 'uns and the lab work on pediatrics; the work-ups, night calls, and quiz conferences on medicine; the first female exam on OB GYN; looking for the umbo, superior turbinate, and the glosso-epiglottic folds on ENT; deciding whether you or your patient is psycho, who is interviewing whom, and trying to keep a straight face on NP; and trying to stay awake to catch the jokes in X-Ray. If all of our bluppers, patient experiences, comments and frustrations could be combined and put in writing, they would surely be material for a best seller. They would make Erskin Caldwell's characters appear intelligent, George Gobel a sadist, Ernest Hemingway an introvert, and Confidential blush.

Though the year has had its trials and tribulations (oral surgery quizzes and final exams, respectively), we can look back and happily say, "It won't be as long as it has been." And we can look ahead to see our goal in the near future.

Much like a young bull, full of spirit and enthusiasm for the fight, the new Sophomore Class returned to face the fiery glances and shrewdness of the great "el toro" and his picadors.

The class on entering the arena was met by remarkably light attention at first. Endocrinology was upon us and gone before we realized it, but behind it leered micro with Reid and "Tsutsugamusi" Nelson—formidable foes indeed! It was the end of the first quarter, we had progressed thus far—but, just as we were becoming fatigued, "recessive" Hanna, "speedy" Larson and clinical path entered the arena.

We became nervous and confused, and if it had not been for the intermission—with the Class Party, we should have been in bad shape. Bono Publico lightened the hearts of many, but it was just a short intermission and after Christmas we returned to the field of honor.

The contest is not over, and we are all looking hopefully to the future. The outcome of our contest will not be known until the "merry month of May"—when "the great matador" enters the ring!

To study, or not to study; that is the question:
Whether 'tis nobler in the mind to study
The nerves and arteries of the human body,
Or to take time out for a quick movie,
And by closing the book, end the worry.
The cells, and the thousand chemicals
The flesh is heir to, 'tis an awful lot
To be thinking about.
Low columnar or tall cuboidal, eye, there's the rub.
For who would bear the whips and scorns of textbooks,
The pangs over practical exams,
The wanting, waiting, the LOVING of every moment
Spent in these hallowed halls . . . I WILL!
Aye! I have but a short life lived,
A history I do not have.
My life is not my past, but my future.
Time will bring me to my pinnacle:
Then will it be known that this was:
Nay! This is the Class of 1960.

the eyes of both the child and adult widen in awe as they gaze on shining instruments symbolic of a new road to better health and happiness
The Wood Memorial Building

Housing the Dental School, was completed in 1953. It provides superior facilities for instruction, dental care, and research.

Lessons in anatomy, well remembered by Freshmen.
April, 1861—this marks the organization of the first separate hospital of the Medical College of Virginia. Located at 1225 East Marshall Street, with a capacity for eighty patients, this later became the Old Dominion Hospital. Over twelve hundred patients were admitted the first year of its operation.

In 1895, Dr. Hunter Holmes McGuire founded the University College of Medicine which later consolidated with the Medical College. UCM had as one of its original divisions a department of dentistry. The first dental class, three in number, was graduated from that school in 1895.

The School of Dentistry of the Medical College of Virginia was established in 1897. The first class of five students was graduated in 1900 with the degree of Doctor of Dental Surgery.

PRESENT-DAY CONCEPTS AND DEVELOPMENT
OF THE SENIOR CLASS

INTRODUCTION

A NUMBER of investigators have considered the Class of '57 as developing only in physical age and remaining stagnant in mental progress. One investigator has failed to report as yet. One member of the Class doesn't seem to be concerned as to what the observers think.

HISTORY

This final year has been a big event in the history of our Class. We have improved in professional lingo and matured in mind and body.

Our journey along this last mile has been accompanied by many historical events, such as: The Suez Crisis, Social Security for Dentists, Racial Conflict, Sports Car Enthusiasm, and No Saturday Classes.

Christmas vacation found most of us with the U. S. Post Office, and other odd jobs, but a few just went home.

Interesting lectures faced us this term in Oral Surgery, Tumor Clinic, Clinical Medicine, and Practice Management.

Our biggest job this year was the writing of our theses... at the last minute.

CONCLUSION

We have enjoyed our years of study at MCV, the friendly contacts among the students, our association with the faculty and our relationship with patients. In our happiness here at graduation time we shall not lose sight of our obligation to the school and state, our duty to the profession and our debt to society.

In Memoriam

SAMUEL HENRY WRIGHT

WHO can say what purpose God has for our lives? We are all a part of a magnificent and wondrous plan. Some live to be old; some die young, but each life is influenced by those it comes in contact with. We are but products of our environment and our associations.

Sam was with us for only a short time, but during his presence we profited greatly from his kindness and friendship; and in his silence our hearts cease not to listen to his heart; our lives cease not to be touched by his life. Although we grieve in the parting of our friend, that which we loved in him most is clearer in his absence, as the mountain to the climber is clearer from the plain.

Our classmate and our friend was he.

"And let there be no purpose in friendship save the deepening of the spirit.
And in the sweetness of friendship let there be laughter, and sharing of pleasures.
For in the dew of little things the heart finds its morning and is refreshed."

In our sorrow we look deeper into our hearts and see that in truth we are weeping for that which has been our delight.
AFTER being gently led toward our goal for two years, we suddenly found ourselves somewhat more than dental neophytes, but with a lengthy way yet to be traveled.

Deep down inside we realized that we bore only the faintest resemblance to that impeccable creature which we had once, as Freshmen, considered the esteemed Junior to be. Proudly we dressed on that first day of summer clinic, but it was soon found that the white jacket did not solve many problems.

Charts were a maze and procedures confusing to us as patients first entered our lives, but with the understanding help of our professors, the compatibility of student and instruments began to grow, along with a small degree of clinical judgment. Scores of secrets tested our discretion, and tact was tried by a thousand embarrassments, but with cheerfulness and courage we progressed to the point where we can now concentrate more on the real problems of techniques and skills, and less on the initial mystifying atmosphere associated with the clinic.

"Aw, let me ride too"

"That handsome foursome"
THE Class of ’59 has dwindled a bit since its beginning; and of the original seventy-five green freshmen, sixty-eight struggling Sophomores remain. Our social activities and the speed with which we move will continue to accelerate through our senior year.

This year has seen our class write its fate with gold in Crown and Bridge, Operative, Dental Materials, and Prosthetics. At last we will not have to stumble up the dark stairs of the Egyptian Building, microscope in hand, to see many, many polymorphonuclear leukocytes that are very hard to see; nor will we crawl up that fourth flight of McGuire Hall to put Old Shep away with a pneumothorax.

Under expert guidance, with an occasional push, we have been led to the clinic door. May the gingival tissues of our patients fare a lot better than did many of our fingers in Dr. Clough’s Blood Bank, or our dentoforms in Dr. Boyd’s wax works.

Our dream, so far in the future, is becoming more of a reality with each mistake we make. To many of us, Dentistry lies no longer a strange miscellany and lumber room, but it now takes form and order.

Here’s hoping that lightning won’t strike twice in the same place, and there will be sixty-eight of us in ’59.

SEPTEMBER 4, 1956 and once again seventy-eight individuals became Freshmen. Our class was the largest Freshman class up to this time to enroll in the School of Dentistry at MCV. There was the usual period of indoctrination and purchasing of equipment and books (it seemed as though we were becoming stockholders in the school rather than students) and then we settled down to our study of dentistry.

Gross anatomy, histology, oral anatomy and dental materials got us off to a good start in our preparation for our future profession. This was also the period of fraternity rush parties, with Psi Omega and Delta Sigma Delta providing us with a generous round of entertainment and fellowship. Another fraternity, known as the Zips, stuck its foot in the door at this time and proceeded to pledge the largest number of Freshmen.

By the end of the first quarter we realized that this year was going to be a difficult one, and whether or not we succeeded in our chosen profession would depend entirely upon us for the next four years. So with excellent instruction and cordiality our instructors helped us begin the development of the skills and techniques which our future success depended upon.

After an enjoyable first quarter we went like unsuspecting lambs into the second quarter despite the admonitions of the upperclassmen. The neuroanatomy and biochemistry textbooks were in a secret coded form, known only to the instructors of that department. However, we finally groped our way out of the second quarter and into the third.

We seemed to be over the hump of our first year's studies, and the coming of spring and our final exams rushed rapidly towards us. Looking back over the year we can recall long nights of arduous study, the smell of the gross anatomy laboratory, the slow acquisition of new skills and the blaring sound of a combo in some fraternity house. All of these factors and many more too numerable to list here have combined to make our first year an exciting and stimulating one, and to enable us to anticipate with eagerness the three remaining years of our preparation for the field of dentistry.

the flame of hope removes the shadow from the human heart as a new medicine helps in giving new life}---
McGuire Hall

Named in honor of Dr. Hunter Holmes McGuire, was formally opened in 1912. It now houses the School of Pharmacy and is the center for research in its anatomical, biological, and biochemical departments.

Freshmen frequent the halls of McGuire.
PHARMACY has been taught since the very beginning of the College. At first, it was a part of the school of medicine curriculum. During the session of 1878-79, it emerged as a separate school and the college charter was amended to allow conferring the degree of graduate in pharmacy.

The Medical College of Virginia was the first medical school in the Commonwealth to adopt a four-year course of instruction. This was done in the year 1899.

In 1913, the Medical College merged with the University College of Medicine. This consolidation resulted in the appointment of the first full-time college president, Dr. Samuel Chiles Mitchell. He was followed in 1919 by Dr. Stuart McGuire, a former president of UCM.

Since 1936, Pharmacy has been taught as a four-year course at MCV, with the degree of Bachelor of Science in pharmacy.

The 1957 Pharmacy Class proudly dedicates this section to Dr. Milton L. Neuroth for his unselfish advice, exuberant friendliness, understanding and inspiration in our Pharmacy schooling.
In 1953, we became future pharmacists when we unleashed ourselves upon the campus (?) of MCV and registered in at the "old" undecorated McGuire Hall. At that time, no one was more eager to learn than our Class of '57. However, thirteen bit the dust within the first two days and the orientation procedures bluff out two more.

We all agree that there will never be another class to survive, being moved so much, and having so few quiet classrooms, because of construction taking place all around us. Our Senior year has been more pleasant; however, it's quite possible we'll make good pharmacists after Uncle Sam gets through with us.

We are having the honor of breaking Dr. Hartung into the MCV curriculum, and he's surviving very well with, "When is sawdust not sawdust?" Dr. Krezanowski has been keeping us up to date in dispensing and we're looking forward to Dr. Andrako's Drug Assay.

"I think" in Biochemistry by Dr. Forbes was reminiscent of our Junior year with Fiske and his "sonething." Dr. Negus was an interesting lecturer with his endless illustrations; but unless you were up front, you often missed hearing what he had said. Dr. Neuroth continued to teach us pharmacy, math, law, and brought films galore. Mr. Miller and his law treated us kindly by proving that a little "pill rolling" is a dangerous thing. We are grateful to "coffee and donuts," Shotzberger for taking time out from writing his book on drug store management to come and give us all those little pearls. Dr. Huf has made a new frontier in stimulating interest in physiology by bringing high school girls to visit our laboratories. "Nool's Ere" Fischer and Dr. Solomon still wonders where and when the Class is gonna meet next. "Congressional Medals of Honor" are being sent to those "nine brave physiologists," for their December 18th stand.

Of all the distinctions due us for our "firsts" we are happy to be the first Graduating Class under the rein of Dr. Warren E. Weaver, Dean of the School of Pharmacy.

Now, as we turn our fourth-year leaf, we are planning for a Senior trip to Indianapolis and Chicago, as well as finally trying to absorb in these fading weeks what our instructors have tried so diligently to cram into our pointed little heads for the preceding years.

SEPTEMBER, 1956, calling all Juniors! Calling all Juniors! Man your mortars and pestles! The "profs" are about to attack!

The call was heeded by the Class of '58 and the battles of the year began.

We were introduced to two new weapons, the "analytical balance" and the "50 ml. buret." These weapons, we were told, would be helpful only if we gave them much personal attention.

We have been to the bottom of the Pacific in search for algae, to the heart of Africa for strophanthus and to the West Coast for cascara sagrada quills. We have traced the skeletal features of mankind, made Brown mixture and moulded suppositories. We have studied the vast universe of micro-organisms and have triturated faithfully to the very end.

Fondest of our memories are the friendships among our classmates, and the numerous social events, which many times included minute quantities of tastily flavored C₂H₂O₇, to ease our pain.

May, 1957—away all Juniors! Away all Juniors! You are headed to the port of "Seniors."

SEPTEMBER brought the return of the Class of '59 to roam the halls of MCV once again. It was a return in which many faces were so familiar and so good to see, yet one in which many were missing with new ones to take their place.

This time our return was with the superior feeling of being Sophomores. We knew the score, and we had the smug idea that we had it "made in the shade." At least that's what we thought until the second day of the first quarter. The boom was then lowered, and we have become the famed "Quiz Kids." No other class can boast of such a collection of blue books equal to ours. Not only is it tremendous in size, but also the subject and grade ranges are of the greatest varieties.

We have put our time and effort to good use; thereby learning things we shall never forget. For instance, did you know the price of living has gone up? The proof of it lies in the fact that Florsheim shoes now cost twenty-two dollars! Shakespeare taught us that there was "Nothing in a name, but that something was rotten in the state of Denmark." From Organic we enriched our lives not so much with facts, but with the mastery of the delicate art of distillation. Finally, how could we possibly forget that eggs cook in boiling water at zero degrees centigrade?

It hasn’t been a year entirely spent in studying. We’ve been caught in the whirl of rush parties and pledging that reached their climax at fraternity initiation. There is also the memory of the success of our Sophomore party.

After two years’ struggle, we have reached the half-way mark of our goal. Whatever the future might bring we are eagerly looking forward to next year and those mornings.

As we stood in line in McGuire Hall, waiting to register, the heat was terrific. It was September 4th, and our first day at MCV. A new world was opening to us, and with it began the fulfilling of a noble ambition.

After several days of orientation we became acquainted with one another, as well as becoming thoroughly familiar with such places as the Book Store and the Student Union.

With the beginning of classes, everyone settled down with determination. In biology laboratory we "attacked" our frogs, struggled with protozoa, and sweated through the practical quizzes. Chemistry lectures filled our heads with thoughts of atoms, many laws, and definitions. In chemistry laboratory we went bravely forward—spilling acid and burning fingers—but nevertheless steadily acquiring knowledge. We learned something of the history of our chosen profession, while at the same time we wrote English themes and worked algebra problems.

Our social life was not to be neglected. What fun we had at the various dances and picnics! Our Freshman Party in January was an absolute success.

With the closing of school, we realize we have progressed, and rightly so. We owe many thanks to our professors and instructors for all the help they have given us.

We are now looking forward to being Sophomores, and our main desire is to make next year as good as this one has been.

We have a great deal of respect for the profession of Pharmacy; we want very much to be an active part of it.

Cabaniss Hall

Named in honor of Sadie Heath Cabaniss, pioneer nurse in Virginia, was erected in 1928. This dormitory and educational unit stands as the center for the School of Nursing.

Freshmen get acquainted
The School of Nursing traces its origin back to 1895, to the Old Dominion Hospital School for Nurses. This marks the date when Miss Sadie Heath Cabaniss inaugurated the first actual Florence Nightingale plan of teaching nurses at the Medical College of Virginia. Two years later she saw the first class, composed of nine students, graduate from this institution. With her vision and skill, she held high the torch of professional standards and led in laying strong foundations for subsequent nursing education in Virginia.

With the consolidation of MCV and the University College of Medicine in 1913, many area nursing schools also combined; and thus, by this merger, our School of Nursing was significantly enlarged and enriched. Nineteen hundred fifty-three saw nursing become a four-year course with the degree of Bachelor of Science in Nursing now being conferred.

Today, with an enrollment of more than fifteen hundred students, the Medical College of Virginia stands as a beacon shining forth its light of hope, service, and progress throughout the world.
To one who, through the past four years, has shown such a genuine interest in each of us, has been so willing to help when we needed advice, and has gone out of her way to do many nice things for us. It is with genuine gratitude and pride that we, the Senior nurses of 1957, dedicate our portion of the annual to a sincere friend and guide—

Dr. Myra Williams!
SEPTEMBER 8, 1953! An eventful date for forty-three girls fresh from high school who were out to make a name for themselves in the field of nursing. Our class, naturally, was special to us; but it was also unique to the rest of MCV because we were the first class to enter under the newly inaugurated four-year degree program.

Our first year was a flurry of classes, parties, and just getting used to being in a professional school. The “shop” talk in the halls and cafeteria scared us and yet fascinated us. We wondered whether we would ever master those terms. But somehow we struggled through and came up not much the worse for wear.

After a month’s vacation we eagerly returned as Sophomores, knowing that this was to be the year we would get down to the actual art of nursing. We had received our blue uniforms the summer before, but had only used them for observation and tours. Now we put them on in earnest and began making beds, arranging flowers, doing terminal cleaning, and filling water pitchers. In December we donned our white uniforms and caps, and decided all the work was worth it just to be called “nurse.” Of course, it wasn’t all work and no play; we celebrated with a Stardust Ball which was one of the highlights of the year.

With the onset of our Junior year we began the rounds of special services, discovering the delights of the nursery, the fright of the operating room, and the excitement of the labor and delivery rooms. At graduation time we honored the Seniors at the annual Junior-Senior Breakfast, and wondered if our day of glory would ever come.

After numerous showers and weddings, September ’56 was upon us; and we officially became Seniors, with our black bands in place. We faced our last special services which included pediatrics, where we discovered that working with children is not as easy as it sounds; psychiatry, where we learned that there is more to nursing than just giving physical care; and public health, which was for many of us a vacation at home as well as a new learning experience in the field of nursing. We took time from our work to sponsor the annual Christmas dance, “Christmas by Starlight,” with a beautiful Queen of Silver Stars; and 1956 rolled out in a festive mood. The winter and spring months of ’57 sped by; and before we knew it we were ordering invitations, attending receptions and breakfasts, and walking up the aisle in caps and gowns to receive our diplomas. Suddenly we were no longer students, but graduate nurses. We may forget many of the individual days that we thought would never end, but we will always remember the friends we’ve made, the experiences we’ve had, and the feeling that for four years we were part of MCV.

SEPTEMBER'S sun coaxed twenty-seven "Nightingale" butterflies out of the cocoon of sophomorehood and thrust them into a new realm of "upper classmen." It took us a little while to realize what had happened; and, consequently, if we appeared a little dazed, it was to be overlooked.

This fantasy started with new services for many of us. There was O.B., O.R., and the clinic. Of course, there were still the old familiar scenes of 3 South and 5 East!

Time lies still on IDLE hands; therefore, the first thing we knew it was October with its celebration of Halloween. In true festive spirit we celebrated—with RELIEF! November found us breathing a thankful breath for the completion of surgical nursing, along with our turkey. Then, too, it was only a month 'til time for sleigh bells to start jingling. People went about their work "Dreaming of a White Christmas" and the little "Nightingale" butterflies began arraying themselves in festive colors for the Christmas ball. Long will this event be remembered by those who danced and on and on and ON in the arms of "The One."

New Year's brought with it scores of resolutions (faithfully followed until January 2) and a new settling down to business. The time of hearts and flowers was observed accordingly with many romances blooming and still more budding.

With Easter came a new realization of many wonderful things. Spring was just around the corner. That meant walks in the Capitol, sun bathing on Randolph Minor and trips to the beach. An outstanding event of this season was the Junior-Senior breakfast joyously planned for our big sisters.

Then almost before we knew what was happening it was May with its birds and breezes. Plans were made for graduation and vacations; ah, excitement the keynote!

Looking ahead a few months we realized that soon the final stage of metamorphosis would begin; for the little butterflies would be SENIORS!
Case History

Sixty white females, ranging in age from seventeen to thirty-five; two married, several diamonds, many fraternity pins and the rest hoping. were referred by Cabaniss Hall to The Medical College of Virginia Hospital in early September, 1956. A thorough examination showed a desire to work in the hospital more often; apparent nervousness attributed to the watchful eye of the instructors and not having read procedures; dishpan hands from excessive scrubbing during the summer quarter; sore backs from improper body mechanics; an unheard of aversion to bedpans; indigestion from hurried meals; and constant complaining about the esthetic factors.

Diagnosis

Lab reports showed a definite existence of "nurse-itis" consisting of the desire to become a nurse and to help mankind by helping the individual in his time of need.

Treatments and Medications

Decrease leisure time; administer an occasional Saturday off, when necessary; dances recommended twice a year; replace blue uniforms with white ones; increase trips to library; and apply practice of procedures at Randolph-Minor Hall more often.

Nurses' Notes

Spent a profitable year both scholastically and socially; showed adaptability of procedures to individual needs; found working in the hospital a great relief to the pain of attending class.

Remarks

The results of the treatments given these girls are amazing. There are no more signs of nervousness; more skill is noticed in each; and above all, there is now an ability to teach the patient and to IMPROVISE!

This group has been released into the custody of Miss Louise Wiedmer—Sponsor, Instructor, and Friend.

IT SEEMS trite to say that we arrived on September 4, 1956. Nevertheless, arrive we did! Those first few weeks were heavenly but perhaps that is the wrong word. Jazz sessions were held and various types of the jitterbug were demonstrated by girls from many different sections of the country. We found that there was one thing we all had in common, though—and that was Elvis Presley and his "Hound Dog." There was nothing in the world which we couldn't accomplish. We had youth, vivaciousness and life. What more could one have asked? We were in a dream world of fantasy!

It was not long, however, before we faced reality in its cruelest form. We shortly discovered the fly in the ointment. We were expected to study! It soon became apparent that we were not going to be able to listen to a lecture now and then and rack up an A on the strength of it, as we had done in high school. We began to become acquainted with the insides of atoms, Rana pipiens, and added to our worries was the fact that we were thought to be "imbeciles." It was a gruesome awakening, and we discovered that all this studying interfered horribly with our social lives.

There were times, of course, when we were discouraged and forlorn, but those moments passed, and each new day brought with it the warmth of the sun. Tears have been shed but there have also been the smiles, and the happy moments have been the cherished ones. They will be remembered much longer than the tears. Though our Freshman year at MCV has been a difficult one, the years to come will be the best. Now, it is toward tomorrow and what it may bring that we, the Class of 1960, lift our heads.

CONSTITUTION of the STUDENT ASSOCIATION
MEDICAL COLLEGE of VIRGINIA
SCHOOL of NURSING

Preamble

In order that all students of the school may participate in college activities, enjoy all privileges as members of the student body and promote the well-being of our school and society of members of the student body and of the university, we, the members of the said student body, do ordain and establish this constitution.

ARTICLE I
Name

The name of the organization shall be the Student Association of the Medical College of Virginia school of nursing.

ARTICLE II
Purpose

The purpose of this organization is to provide for the protection, advancement, and development of the individual interests of its members and to promote the general welfare of others through social, cultural, educational, and welfare activities.
the tiny test tube may hold an answer to the puzzling symptoms, establishing a diagnosis, a treatment, a cure perhaps; and another step is taken on the road to progress
We, the Med Tech Class of 1957, dedicate these pages to Dr. J. Dos Santos, Comrade, Teacher, and Champion.

Asking for and acting upon any complaints or suggestions that we may have, sharing the laughter of our free moments, setting us an example of conscientious service, he has personified for us that ideal of dedication to a successful career combined with a true zest for life.

He has earned a prominent place in our hearts, our memories and our ambitions, as well as in this book.
SEPTEMBER 4, 1956, in new and unstarched uniforms and unbroken-in shoes, twenty-four aspiring Medical Technology students arrived at MCV and took their grand tour of that huge hospital (oh, those aching feet)—with our guide, Dr. Santos, pointing out the sights. As soon as we found our way around the old Medical Technology School, we were moved—microscope and test tube—over to the dental building where we stayed until March.

Learning to "stick," after first practicing on our lab partners, was a big event in our career. With much sweat (on our part and on the patient's), we finally became accomplished enough to make the rounds alone in this, our first introduction to hospital work.

At Christmas, faculty and students mingled socially for fun and "horse-play" at our President's apartment.

In March, we left the Dental School in peace and began our six months in the hospital where "exsangmination blues" took on real meaning. This era had certain enlightenments—such as night and weekend duty.

Plans for the future find our class scattering after the main goal of passing the registry—while Miss Straw is still waiting for the train to come in...

physical therapy
It is with gratitude and affection that we dedicate our section to Miss Margot Trimble, who, with infinite patience and deep understanding, guided our first steps along the road of Physical Therapy.
SEPTEMBER 1956 arrived... vacations ended... six-week clinicals were over... twenty-two members of the Class of '57 began again the daily grind. Anatomy... Therapeutic Exercise... Physiology... what means this?... you P.T.'s are stupider than the medical students!... the whole trouble is that you do not follow the instructions... Ja!... Nancye, have you ever seen a frog bite a man?... Ed chased the cute little rat up and down the lab... if the rat bites off your finger, don't forget to get a tetanus shot... a little curare never hurt anyone. We learned the names of the thirty-nine new Juniors at the picnic, we thought... then called Terry, Jerry and Punky, Monkey... we trudged home full of hot dogs and dust. Only instructors can stop at the Skull... you students run to class. October... we presented an APTA mock board meeting, and afterwards had refreshments in the South Lab. Friday night parties... Weinburg sang, the hound dog howled, we laughed until we cried. The girls played some successful basketball games at the Y... no broken glasses or noses that is. You are doing it all wrong!... cradle the leg with one arm, stabilize with the other, and palpate with the other?!... what do you don't see?!... what is the question to this answer?... here is a list, 3,000 possible questions on the Registry (without answers)... Muscle Testing, Pathology, Dermatology... ten other 'ologies passed, and we hoped we did. Who has change for a dime?... Mary Alice, this machine doesn't work... burning the midnight oil on the Baruch Scoop... Functional Anatomy and Muscle Testing intertwined like roots of two enormous trees... many of us learned the wisdom of silence... you are for Ike? You just failed the course!... dissection lab... wains, vessels, and the intestines... which one has the prettiest muscles?... ours, of course!... our first demonstration to the Juniors... we called the biceps the anterior tib, and they believed us. June came... graduation... three months of clinical... goodbye stairs, Skull, cheese sandwiches, and bridge... just the Registry and hopes of a good job to look forward to!

School of Physical Therapy
SEPTEMBER 5, 1956, saw the arrival in Richmond of thirty-nine prospective physical therapists from every section of the United States and from the Virgin Islands. We met in Memorial Hall for registration and heard: “I was here at seven-thirty this morning and they said to come back later.” “Are all the books that big?” “... and you get halfway across and it says, ‘Don’t Walk’.” “Your landlady did WHAT?!”

Later, there were entrance exams... “Which is the most important...?” “What did you put for number seventy?” And orientation... “Walking upstairs is good for the heart.” “Check the bulletin board daily.” “Don’t ever faint in the amphitheater!”

The weeks that followed were kaleidoscopic. We’ll remember... “And when I came back the patient was gone!” “Which group goes in the hospital next?” “Abduction occurs in what plane?” “Sorry we’re late but we got lost in the tunnel!” “Next slide, please.” “Let’s see now... acceleration equals...???” “I thought that class was on second floor!” There was the picnic at Byrd Park and the two-hour volleyball game, the APTA meeting, and our first chance to watch surgery. Everyone read “Peanuts,” wondered if it would ever stop raining, and listened to the “choral group” sing during the breaks.

These are only a few of the things we’ll remember... the lighter side. But we’ll also remember the more serious aspect of our training, which has provided us with a foundation for our future work, a deep respect for the medical team, and the determination to be responsible and dedicated members of our profession.

THE Virginia Hospital Association, in 1947, recognized the lack of hospital personnel who had received formal training in hospital administration. Realizing the need for proper training in this exacting profession, it requested the Medical College of Virginia to institute a course in hospital administration. Through the untiring efforts of Mr. Charles P. Cardwell, Jr., Director of the Hospital Division of the Medical College of Virginia, the first classes were started on January 1, 1950.

From its beginning the course has had two specific phases: The first phase, six months of intensive classroom study, followed by the second phase, the administrative residency. Practical experience is gained by serving for one year in two of eight affiliating Virginia hospitals. Upon completion of the residency, a certificate in hospital administration is awarded.

With the growth of the course in stature and usefulness, the Board of Visitors of the Medical College of Virginia in 1952 approved a degree course. The didactic phase was extended to nine months, the residency period remaining the same.

The school of hospital administration is now a graduate school. Upon successful completion of the program the master’s degree in hospital administration is conferred.

The graduate study program at the Medical College of Virginia was initiated in 1934 by Dr. John C. Forbes, who became the first Chairman of the Committee on Graduate Study. The earliest graduate students worked for the degree of Master of Science in the field of Biochemistry. Since then the program has grown steadily and, at present, work leading to the degree of Master of Science in the departments of Anatomy, Bacteriology, Biochemistry, Hospital Pharmacy, Legal Medicine, Pathology, Pharmaceutical Chemistry and Pharmacology. Qualified graduate students are also accepted for research leading to the degree of Master of Science in the School of Dentistry. Special opportunities are also provided for those who wish to prepare themselves both in medicine and in scientific research and for these students the degree of Master of Medical Science is offered in conjunction with the degree of Doctor of Medicine. A limited number of specially qualified students are carrying out studies for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. So far, doctoral candidates have been accepted only in the Department of Pharmacology. At the beginning of the present academic year there were fourteen enrolled in the graduate program. Since 1947, Dr. Ebbe Curtis Hoff has served as Chairman of the Committee on Graduate Study. During this school year, Dr. Hoff was appointed Dean of the Graduate School.
THE Medical College of Virginia Hospital offers a one-year course in hospital dietetics to young women who have a B.S. degree from an accredited college or university and who can meet certain specific course requirements. The course is approved by the American Dietetic Association and, upon completion, interns are eligible for membership in the Association and may hold positions in Class “A” hospitals in the capacity of administrative, therapeutic, clinic, or teaching dietitian.

Training is begun in September of each year and students are housed in the Frances Helen Zeigler House, one of the college dormitories. During training students receive 115 hours of lecture work, as well as practical experience in the various units. Instruction is given under the supervision of graduate dietitians in the Department of Dietetics.

Upon satisfactory completion of the course, dietetic interns are granted a certificate from the Hospital Division, and are eligible for membership in the Medical College of Virginia Alumni Association.

sometimes an individual can only wish for great things, but an organization with its heart and mind directed toward a common goal can accomplish great things
THE Student Council represents the student government within the Medical College of Virginia. Among the major functions of the Council are the accurate interpretations of the Constitution and Honor System, wise disbursement of Student Body funds, and supervision of school elections.

Through the work of the Student Council during the past year, we feel that we have become a better united student body.

This year the student funds were distributed among the X-Ray, the Athletic Association, the Social Committee, and the student division of our college paper, The Medicovan.

The Student Council has proved very capable in maintaining the student government at a high level and in making for a better Medical College of Virginia throughout this year.

THE Honor System is a system of self-government whereby the students themselves eliminate from their body those who fail to deport themselves as honorable men or women in all of their college matters. It is the duty of the Honor Council to try all cases considered infringements of our Honor Code. Each class elects two members to the Honor Council.

We are proud that the ideals of sound government, that the proper distribution of power and responsibility, and that the triumph of right are operating within the structure of our organizations. We have practiced and upheld these principles of democratic government and living—striving always to improve and progress in our campus activities, LIVING BETTER AS OUR KNOWLEDGE INCREASES.

In 1913, the first X-Ray was presented to the student body of the Medical College of Virginia. Throughout the years, this annual publication has given the students something concrete to which they can turn in their hours of reminiscing.

The annual serves as a valuable medium in uniting the various schools here at the college, for the staff is open to all students.

The X-Ray is governed by the students through the Board of Publications which elects the Editor-in-Chief and the Business Manager.

Miss Thelma Vain Hoke has served as advisor during this session.

The original student newspaper, Skull and Bones, was started in February, 1923, and discontinued in May, 1954. In the spring of 1954, the students voted to discontinue the Skull and Bones and instead, have four pages of student news in the regular college newspaper, The Medicovan, to be known as the Skull and Bones Section.

The Medicovan was started in 1948, by Marvin W. Topping, then public relations director. It was named by Miss Ann Blanton, who won over other contestants in selecting a suitable name. The paper continued under the editorship of Mr. Topping until he resigned in the fall of 1950. In April, 1951, Miss Thelma Vain Hoke was appointed editor.

The Medical College of Virginia branch of the Young Men’s Christian Association, with directors and a paid secretary, was organized in 1916. Mr. Minmus Lee, who was then State Y. M. C. A. secretary, was very influential in helping a group to get it started. The following have served as MCV secretaries: Mr. Phil B. Trigg, Mr. Walter C. Cralle, and Mr. Earl T. Sullenger. In September, 1923, our present secretary, Mr. Jonah L. Larrick, was appointed.

For over thirty years, Mr. Larrick has rendered invaluable services to the student body through his able direction of the college athletic program. To him the students are indeed indebted for his constant enthusiasm and inspiration and for his capable co-ordinating of student affairs.

Mr. Larrick discusses activities for the college Y. M. C. A. with President John Butler and Vice President Robert Beasley.

THE Medical College of Virginia Chapter of the Student American Medical Association was formed in 1952. This young club has rapidly taken its place among the organizations of the school.

Our objects are to advance the profession of medicine, to contribute to the welfare and education of medical students on this campus and to strengthen the bond between the students of the Medical College of Virginia and other medical schools, to familiarize our members with the purposes and ideals of organized medicine, and to prepare them to meet the social, moral and ethical obligations of the profession of medicine.
THE Student Dental Society was organized in its present form in the fall of 1946, with the expressed purpose of promoting scholarship and professionalism among the members of the society.

Guest lecturers are sponsored throughout the year and a student loan fund is made available by the society for any student in need of financial assistance.

Dr. George W. Burke, Jr., serves as the faculty advisor. Membership is open to all students in Dentistry; the executive committee consists of the officers and one representative from each class.
THE American Pharmaceutical Association, founded in 1852, is pharmacy's oldest association. A Student Branch was established at MCV February 25, 1942, to encourage in the broadest and most liberal manner the advancement of pharmacy as a science and as a profession in accordance with the objectives of the national organization, especially in fostering education in matters involving pharmacy in all of its branches and its applications and aiding in promoting the public health and welfare.

The Student Branch is designed to offer programs of interest to the student concerning topics related to pharmacy and science. A variety of information of specific interest to the prospective pharmacist not usually covered in the regular curricula is available to its members.

The Student Branch of the Virginia Pharmaceutical Association was organized in the spring of 1955, through the efforts of many students who realized the need for a link between the students of pharmacy and the practicing pharmacists throughout the state.

It is the aim of the Student Branch to better prepare future pharmacists by bringing them in closer contact with the active men in pharmacy. The association hopes that by having programs led by professional men in the state, many of the problems that the beginning pharmacists meet can be solved through the experiences of the speakers.
THE Dames Club is a national organization to promote friendship among the medical schools through this association of wives. Each year the members strive to raise money for a charity project; this year, this is directed toward helping the Cerebral Palsy Fund in its drive for aid.

sports
THE Athletic Association was organized in 1923, with its prime aim to create within the school a means of relaxation, exercise and diversion and to encourage competitive spirit for the schools connected with the Medical College of Virginia. A complete schedule of intercollegiate play is maintained for men's basketball and tennis and girls' basketball. It also supervises intramural basketball, softball, baseball, ping pong, and has made available student membership at the Glenwood Country Club.

Dr. William Parker, Graduate Manager since 1924, provides the leadership and guidance for the association. Much of the success attained during the past twenty-nine years is attributed to the efforts of our leader and friend, Jonah L. Larrick (better known as "Pop Larrick"), who has worked tirelessly in student activities and interests.

Plans for the future include a Student Field House and Athletic Building to be erected on the campus.
ON December 1, 1956, the Medics began their 1956 - '57 varsity basketball season on the court of the Norfolk Division of William and Mary. This was the first of a twelve game schedule which ended on February 16, 1956. Although the MCV team was victorious in only three games, the year was packed with much action, excellent teamwork and sportsmanship.

THE women students of the Medical College enjoyed a successful basketball season this session, although they were not victors in every competition. The teamwork and fellowship that was shared by each team member contributed tremendously to the success of the Medicettes; and it is for these, rather than the number of victories and defeats, that the 1956-’57 season will be remembered.

AS FOURTH PRESIDENT OF THE
Medical College of Virginia
Richmond, Virginia
Monday, December Seventeenth
1936

---to be remembered long after the moments of struggle and heartache are forgotten—with these we build our memories--- reflections of those happy moments
Each year at Christmastime, the students in the School of Nursing sponsor a formal dance for the college student body. This event, with its Christmas theme, is highlighted annually by the crowning of the queen selected by popular vote of the students. December 7, 1956, marked the date for the occasion this school year.

Dancing under the silver stars . . . wonderful, enchanting memories . . . this truly was our “Christmas by Starlight.”
Christmas at the Medical College of Virginia with its special services, caroling, dances, and parties gives each and every student an opportunity to express in his own way the good will and the happiness he would share with others.
- - - memories that will live, tho' we soon will leave these hallowed halls every achievement serves to lift our aims and goals to ever higher planes honoraries
ALPHA SIGMA CHI, founded at the Medical College of Virginia in 1938, is an honorary society organized to serve the college and student body and to grant recognition to those who by meeting high standards of leadership, scholarship, and character have demonstrated ability and willingness to play roles in carrying on student activities.

Members are chosen from the Schools of Medicine, Dentistry, Pharmacy, and Nursing. An honorary member is chosen annually from among the faculty.

Prime purposes of the society are to provide an organization with lofty ideals entirely above smallness, politics, or personal favoritism and to create a spirit of fellowship and co-operation among students in the four schools.
The Gamma Chapter of Sigma Zeta National Honorary Scientific Society, organized at the Medical College of Virginia in 1926, includes students from all four schools whose achievements in scholarship and interest in the sciences make them worthy of membership. Sigma Zeta aims to encourage scholarship in science and recognition of attainment in this field.

in appreciation

The editor-in-chief could never adequately express her sincerest appreciation to all those who have helped make possible the publication of the 1957 X-Ray. The student body, the faculty and administration, and the companies with whom we contracted have all served as invaluable aides.

The most wholehearted thanks go to each and every member of the staff whose co-operation, loyalty, and encouragement provided continual inspiration and assistance.

Special recognition is given the following people whose advice and aid in many matters is inestimable:

Mr. Lester Chandler, Mr. M. H. Jones, and Mr. H. R. Shires of Everett Wadley Company for printing.

Mr. Winston Shephard and Mr. Bill Thompson of Lynchburg Engraving Company, Inc.

Mr. Jack Turner for photography of title, dedication, and division pages, and Mr. Frank Dementi of Colonial Studios.

Mr. R. J. White for photography of students.

Mr. Phil Morrison, student photographer.

Miss Thelma Vain Hoke, head of publications at MCV, for serving as our advisor.

To these and all others playing important roles in the publication of this annual, my deepest appreciation. Without you, indeed the 1957 X-Ray would have been impossible.

—The Editor.
